Gentlemen:

Kindly inform me what procedure to pursue to gain membership in your Society, membership dues, also what text books as to value and history of coins I can procure from your Society. I have become very much interested in numismatics and being a constant handler of moneys of different coinages, I am anxious to become familiar with values, etc.

Thanking you in advance, I remain

Very truly yours,

Dear Sir:

In reply to your favour of February 27th, the dues of Associate Members in this Society are but five dollars annually. Members are entitled to all our publications and, also, have the privilege of subscribing for any medals that may be issued.

I take pleasure in enclosing a folder which briefly states the aims of the Society, together with an application card which I should be glad to have you fill in and return at your early convenience should you decide to become a member, at which time it would be placed before our Council for action.

This Society is unable to furnish you with text books but we have various other publications which might be of interest to you.

Trusting that we may add your name to our list of members,

Very truly yours,

Secretary
